Lexington, KY – Lisa Yeager, a native of Mercer County, has accepted a position with the Lexington Branch of Central Kentucky Ag Credit. She will be a Loan Assistant with the Lexington Ag Credit Branch, a position she has held at the Danville Branch for the past 6-1/2 years.

Her new assignment at the Lexington Branch will encompass responsibilities in seven (7) counties, including Fayette, Woodford, Jessamine, Franklin, Scott, Clark and Anderson. Lisa's past work as Loan Assistant with Danville Ag Credit has centered on service to Boyle, Mercer and Anderson Counties.

Shane Turner, Ag Credit's Vice President and Manager of the Lexington Branch said Lisa's rich background in service to the association makes her well-suited for expanded duties in the Lexington Branch, including account management, loan bookings, customer service, records keeping, office management, and more. The Lexington Branch is the largest of Ag Credit's six branches. Overall, Ag Credit is ranked among the largest rural lenders in 17 Central Kentucky counties.

Lisa will obtain her Associates Degree in Business Management and Applied Arts from Lexington's Bluegrass Community and Technical School in May of this year. She completed several AgFirst Farm Credit educational training programs, including Advanced Branch Accounting and Operations, and also studied at Eastern Kentucky University in Richmond. She is a lifetime member of Delta Epsilon Academic Honor Society. Prior to her work with Ag Credit, Lisa served six years as an assistant instructor in the EBD Department with the Mercer County School System and was a child care provider for 19-years prior to the school service.

Lisa is married to Jimmy Yeager, a partner in the Central Kentucky construction firm of Cecil Bros. and Yeager. They are parents of four children, Nicki Bailey, Buddy Yeager, Danni Sutton and Staci Yeager, all of whom are residents of Mercer County. Lisa and Jimmy also have three grandchildren, Tucker Bailey, Olivia Yeager and Karleigh Sutton.
